STRATEGY OF GEN'L WASHINGTON CAUSED CHANGE IN WAR TIDE

"No General Ever Executed More Effective Shift From Defense to Offense"

A TIMELY MESSAGE

Ann Hawkes Hutton Calls Deeds To Mind On Approach of Anniversary

In commemoration of the birthday anniversary of George Washington, the first president of the United States, which occurs on Saturday, Ann Hawkes Hutton, a member of the Washington Crossing Park Commission, directs attention of the public to the national shrine at Washington Crossing along the Delaware River. Mrs. Hutton, the former Miss Ann Hawkes, of Edgely, presents as a birthday anniversary offering, the following inspiring article, recounting deeds of the small band of soldiers under Washington, who snatched a much-needed victory from a foreign foe, marking the change of tide in the American Revolution.

Washington's Birthday

By Ann Hawkes Hutton

On February 22nd we honor the memory of our great general and first president of the United States. This year, with the whole world watching military strategy abroad we can appreciate as never before the leadership of General Washington, one of the greatest military strategists of all time.

We hear a great deal today about the advantage of offensive military action. No general ever executed a more effective shift from defense to offense than did Washington in the battle of Trenton.

In mid-December of the bitter winter of 1776 General Washington, with his small army of half-starved, ragged soldiers, was encamped along the Delaware River near what is now known as "Washington Crossing." He was well aware, as he confessed in a letter on December 22nd that "The game is almost up." With little money, few troops and, perhaps worst of all, little public enthusiasm for the American cause, these were dark days of the Revolution.

Washington knew that a victory then, not in the spring, was absolutely necessary to the success of the rebellion. That is why he adopted the slogan, "Victory or Death," for his march on Trenton. On December 23rd, he wrote to the Adjutant General, "Christmas Day, at night, one hour before day, is the time fixed for our attempt on Trenton. Necessity, dire necessity, will, nay must, justify our attempt."

In spite of the severe weather, the pitiful condition of his men, and the lack of proper equipment, Washington had the courage to decide upon his Trenton attack. We all know about his difficult crossing of the icy Delaware, but we know less about the courage required for his planning. He gave us an example of decisive action when waiting would have been easier and probably fatal. In the face of overwhelming odds he accomplished a master stroke, a shift from defense to offense.

His victory won acclaim abroad and, in this country, restored faith in the American cause. It was this faith which made our freedom possible.

A visit to Washington Crossing on one of these bright, winter days will give vivid reality to remembered school days references to his famous crossing. This historic park, a short hour's drive from Philadelphia, is open at all times. The Washington Crossing Park Commission of Pennsylvania is now working on plans to still further enlarge its recreational facilities.

Near the river's edge is the brown stone monument which was erected in 1895 by the Bucks County Historical Society to commemorate the spot from which Washington embarked. Higher on the bank is the granite monument which was erected by the Patriotic Order Sons of America of Pennsylvania in 1916. The park itself came into being.

SEWING PROJECTS TO CONTINUE TWO MONTHS

Agreement Signed by Governor James and WPA Officials

TO REWRITE PROJECTS

HARRISBURG, Feb. 20.—(INS)—Governor Arthur H. James today moved to obtain a legislative investigation of the dispute which has raged for months between the State and the W. P. A. following signing of a new agreement guaranteeing 12,000 women their W. P. A. sewing jobs.

The Governor agreed to the W. P. A.'s demand for the payment by the State of $10 a month per woman for the upkeep of the 250 projects only a few minutes before the deadline set for their closing.

He did so, he explained, "in order that these women shall not be summarily dismissed."

The new agreement will run for two months. In the meantime the State will rewrite all its sponsored W. P. A. projects, especially State Highway projects employing W. P. A. labor. The W. P. A. in turn agreed that once the new projects are signed any money the State contributes above the 25% share required from the State under the W. P. A. law will be credited against the sewing projects.

Money paid by local governments in excess of 25% on projects sponsored by them will also be credited on the sewing projects, acting State W. P. A. Administrator W. S. Gray explained. "This State and local government 'credit' will then be deducted from the $10 a month the State has agreed to pay for each of the 12,000 women. In no event is the State's share to drop below $2.50, however, nor above $17.50 per woman.

The $10 payment will bring to 15% the State's share in supporting the sewing projects, compared to the 3½% or $2.50 a month being paid now. The remainder of the money is being furnished by the Federal Government and local communities in which the projects are located.

Hillman On Stand

By International News Service
Washington, Feb. 20.—Sidney Hillman, Associate Director-General of the Office of Production Management, today told Congress that labor leaders have committed themselves to prevent calling of strikes until sufficient advance notice has been given the government so that it may intervene.

Hillman, testifying before the House Judiciary Committee, declared that enactment of proposed legislation to bar strikes in defense industries would impair this spirit of co-operation and "retard our defense effort."

"I know that if management and labor will be permitted to improve and perfect their arrangements of voluntary co-operation the interests of national defense will in that manner be best served," he continued.

"The self-discipline of a free and independent people will always enable them to out-think, out-produce, and out-live any system of totalitarian slavery."

Hillman's testimony followed that of OPM Director-General William S. Knudsen, who cautioned the committee that while the legislation could be enacted, getting it "obeyed is another thing." Knudsen said he favored the provision in labor agreements for "cooling off" periods before strikes could be called, but warned against trying to pass laws to this effect.

Declaring that strikes "are the rare exception in defense industry," Hillman asserted that this is largely because of the advance notice that labor has voluntarily given the Defense Commission.

He cited an instance where the co-operation policy halted a strike of 7,000 workers engaged in the production of bombers, which, he said, "would have seriously affected the National Defense program."

BURLINGTON'S WATER SUPPLY GOES DRY

High West Wind Keeps Water Out of Crib Where Intakes Are Located

NO DIFFICULTY HERE

Burlington's water supply was literally "Gone with the Wind" today. The community's 10,000 residents could get a flow of water only on first floors, while 135 customers in outlying Springside had none at all. Officials at the Burlington Water pumping station explained a high wind blew the water out of a crib from which the intake pipes were exposed.

The water flows from the Delaware River into what is termed a "crib" and from this the water is pumped into the intake pipes. The high west wind blew the water from the crib and consequently the intake pipes were on dry ground.

Here and There in Bucks County Towns

James E. Groome, Yardley, president of the Bucks County Firemen's Association, and affiliated with the Reading Railroad Company for a number of years, was the speaker at the meeting of the ladies' auxiliary of the Loyal Republican Club of Bucks County at Buckingham. Mr. Groome gave an interesting talk on the future of the Republican party and women in politics.

A musical program was given by John Crean, Clarence Funk and Thomas Keenan. A prize was awarded to Mrs. Harvey Johnson, of Doylestown, for securing 19 new members to the auxiliary.

The next meeting will be held in March with the men of the club, at which time the program will be an all home talent affair.

The next meeting of the Bucks County Fruit Growers' Association will be held Tuesday, February 25, at 6.30 p. m., at the Cross Keys Inn.

The speaker will be Professor J. O. Pepper, Extension Entomologist from State College, who will discuss the control program for insects for 1941.

Reservations must be made by Friday, February 21 to Ralph T. Crowell, Buckingham.

Announcement has been made by Horace J. Luff, principal of the Buckingham schools, that preparations are being made for the introduction of an adult education school to be held here over a period of six weeks.

Registrations, according to Mr. Luff, will take place on Thursday evening, Feb. 26, from 7.15 until 9.30 o'clock. A survey taken recently shows that many people in the community are interested in the project, and it is believed a large number of persons will enroll Thursday evening.

Courses to be offered will include home economics, world affairs, shop work, English and commercial subjects.

Beginning on March 6, the classes will be held on Thursday evenings in the high school building, here.

Addressing approximately 50 persons at the meeting of the Newtown Parent-Teacher Association in the high school auditorium, at Newtown, C. E. Timmons, of Peddie Institute, Hightstown, N. J., said: "The greatest patriotic duty that confronts you and me today is to make democracy work right here at home, and the parent-teacher association can be a great factor in making it work."

Introduced by Mrs. Ruggles Barnard, the president of the association, Mr. Timmons, listed several other patriotic duties, and in this connection he said: "Our second patriotic duty is to train our youth for leadership, not for regimentation, and we must encourage our youth to participate in local affairs."

"The third patriotic duty is to plan for a lasting peace. We were told the World War was to make the world safe for democracy, but in this it failed. To have a true democracy we must have a free and independent speech and we must maintain a free and independent school system which is fundamental to our liberty. The parent-teacher association forms a partnership between the home and the school."

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT
"Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc."

A Fifth Chairman Soon

Washington, Feb. 19. In elevating Mr. Jerome Frank, chairman of the SEC, to the Federal judiciary the President has done two commendable things. First, he has put an able lawyer on the bench, which, unfortunately, has not been his uniform custom; second, he has redeemed a promise which he felt compelled to break four years ago.

MR. FRANK is not noted for his judicial temperament and is rather truculent and controversial by nature. But he is learned in the law, competent, scholarly and honest. Nor is he in the slightest degree obligated to any politician other than Mr. Roosevelt, in the Senate or out. As to the promise, it will be recalled that two years ago Mr. Frank aspired to the then vacant Federal judgeship in the District of Columbia, and had been told he could have it. However, according to his intimate friends, the President, having recently named Mr. Felix Frankfurter to the Supreme Court, informed Mr. Frank that he would have to withdraw his promise, as he did not think he could afford to name another Jew to the Federal bench at that time.

MR. FRANK naturally acquiesced, but his friends were much disappointed. His present appointment, which undoubtedly will be confirmed not only redeems a Presidential promise but continues the tradition by which the SEC chairmen have consistently moved out of that position to something better. Mr. Kennedy became Ambassador to England; Mr. Douglas went on the Supreme Court, and Mr. Landis became dean of Harvard Law School. Mr. Frank is the fourth in seven years, which, in the opinion of some, is a little too many and gives an impression of instability to the commission.

EACH new chairman has views of his own, and the frequent changes

POLITICAL PERIOD NOW LIKENED TO JACKSON'S

Dr. R. S. Short, Temple University, Analyzes Parties and Conditions

POST - WAR QUESTION

"The present period in American politics is paralleled by Andrew Jackson's time. The people loved and had great confidence in Jackson, and overlooked and never considered the defects of his administration." This statement was made last evening by Dr. Raymond S. Short, professor of political science at Temple University, Philadelphia, at the February meeting of the Fathers Association in the Bristol high school cafeteria.

Dr. Short continued: "Andrew Jackson picked his own successor, but could not transfer to him his personality. He was consequently defeated at the election held in 1836. In Jackson's time there was practically one party. In the last election Mr. Roosevelt could not have transferred his personality to any other New Dealer. Because of this personality, the Democrats will win in 1942 and probably in 1944."

The speaker next analyzed the Democratic party by showing the breakdown of the 1940 vote. "The Republican vote started at the top of the higher incomes and worked down to the middle class. The Democratic vote started at the very bottom and worked up to the middle class. If this develops into a class system it will be dangerous."

"Roosevelt carried the following voters: Labor, skilled and semi-skilled; farmers; W. P. A., old age assistance, and most significant of all the new voters. (Of the 4,900,000 new voters, 3,600,000 voted Democrat and 1,300,000 voted Republican.)

"The new voters seem to be liberal minded. The Republican leaders seem to be leaving Wilkie, who is liberal. If the new voters all are liberal, will they vote for conservative Republicans? It seems that if the Democratic party remains liberal, it may get all the new voters."

"The Republican leadership should present a program that is liberal and that appeals to the new voters."

Dr. Short spoke at great length upon political parties. He gave four reasons for people voting as they do, as follows:

"1. A great many people follow a party because their father and grandfather or someone else followed it.

"2. A large number are in politics for their bread and butter only, and only support ideas that will benefit them.

"3. Some support a party for its principles.

"4. Interest groups influence candidates in favor of interest groups.

"In this country we have a two party system. All groups, societies, etc. find a place in one of the two parties. When an interest or a group joins a party, it must compromise. This compromise is the safety valve that keeps interests from becoming dangerous."

In speaking of voters, Dr. Short said: "The last election showed a noted loss

"SUAVEST CROOK" GETS FROM 5 TO 12 YEARS IN "PEN"

Judge Keller Congratulates Jury On Not Being Afraid To Do Its Duty

THE McCORMICK CASE

"Thank You Very Much, Your Honor," Trenton Thief Replies After Sentence

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 20.—"You are the smoothest, suavest crook that I have ever had before me in criminal court, but now the law has caught up with you and you have been convicted by a Bucks county jury that was not afraid to do its duty," President Judge Hiram H. Keller said to John G. McCormick, Jr., 28, of 214 Academy St., Trenton, N. J., yesterday afternoon as the defendant faced him for sentence.

McCormick, known in Trenton police circles as "Squinty" McCormick, was found guilty by two juries in two days, being tried on a burglary charge that involved the theft of $300 worth of jewelry near New Hope, and an attempted burglary at Buckingham.

A sentence of four to 10 years in the Eastern State Penitentiary, and a fine of $5 and costs was imposed for one offense, and a $5 fine and costs and one to two years on the other, the two to run concurrently from the date of McCormick's commitment to the Bucks County Prison about about 112 days ago.

"I could not understand you at first until I was presented with a copy of your criminal record," Judge Keller said to McCormick, a well dressed, slick-looking individual who said his profession is that of an artist when he has work, and a shoe salesman in slack times.

"You were very clever in your excuses and answers during your two trials," Judge Keller remarked. "You have amazed veterans of this court including attorneys and newspapermen with your story, but this group of Bucks county jurors have properly convicted you and I want to congratulate them in doing their duty. Your attorney, the youngest member of the Bar in the county, Thomas Sidney Cadwalader, 2nd, of Yardley, in his first case, did a very fine job, and he is to be commended."

Judge Keller pointed out that McCormick's criminal career started when he was a juvenile. In 1932 he served three years in the New Jersey State Prison, served on a counterfeiting charge in the Lewisburg Federal Penitentiary to 1938 when he was granted a parole, and was again arrested in 1940 for stealing and discharged, and then his two latest escapades in October and November 1940 in Bucks county.

McCormick was arrested by Pennsylvania Motor Police at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Blood, Buckingham, having been caught in the house on the afternoon of November 18, 1940.

A detainer has also been lodged against McCormick by the United States Marshal's office in Philadelphia.

KALEIDOSCOPE

A wartime emergency never fails to produce a crop of contrasts and incongruities. Here are a few culled from current news dispatches.

When his master was called for military training, Laddie—a Kansas Airedale—refused to eat and pined away of a broken heart, though the medical term is malnutrition. In Germany, this dog would have met the fate of thousands of his kind long before he lost his fat. But over here the supposedly hard-boiled military authorities had Laddie brought by airplane to his master's camp to become mascot of his company if he could be brought around.

It is perfectly obvious that every woe-begone pooch cannot be accommodated. The boys in camp have things to do besides play nurse to man's best friend. But the very fact that it can happen at all is a sign that Americans haven't lost their charity in a brutal world.

The British, too, change their normal course of living only when absolutely necessary for defense. The annual Shakespeare festival will be held as usual this spring at Stratford-on-Avon. Ironically, the celebration will be opened with a performance of "Much Ado About Nothing."

A further example of incongruity is the fate of the Trylon and Perisphere, theme center of the defunct World's Fair. The Fair was dedicated to peace and freedom, but its symbols will be melted down in the blast furnaces of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation to be turned into armor plate for tanks and battleships. Four thousand tons of steel of the peaceful world of tomorrow become 4,000 tons of armament in the warring world of today.

In the revolving kaleidoscope of the present, strange patterns are being formed and reformed.

DOGGY TIME

This is the time to speak again of dogs. February is the month in which is inaugurated the annual series of national dog shows, beginning with the biggest of them all, the sixty-fifth Westminster Kennel Club contest at Madison Square Garden, to be followed by open dog house in virtually every large city in America.

Of course, it doesn't matter to most persons whether their pets can be made into champions, nor even if they have the papers which differentiate the pedigreed from the mongrel, euphemistically labeled the All-American. A dog is a dog, and if his master loves him and he worships his master, that's all there is to it.

The winners will pin proudly their blue ribbons and trophies, but the true dog fans are those who continue to keep and cherish their entries, even if the pets finish in the ruck. The measurement and cold judgment of the experts is one thing; the affection of master for dog and vice versa is another.

The prediction is that dogdom is about to embark on its greatest season. That means not only sporting events but also the increased warmth of companionship between man and his best friend.

Though the new millinery confirms man's worst fears, who would have it otherwise? What would the sex be if it became a slave to common sense?

Things turn out funny. This one was to have been a war on the bug world but the only insect so far mentioned is that headline specimen "Italians Flee."

The Great Game of Politics

add to the uncertainties of those who do business with it. Interest is now centered upon who the new chairman will be. Probably Mr. Leon Henderson could have the post if he liked. But he resigned to go on the Defense Commission, and while there are reports that since its reorganization he is not very happy, still he is intensely keen on the job of holding down prices, which he has made his own, and easily might regard it as his patriotic duty not to turn that over to anyone else.

THE only other name so far mentioned is that of Mr. Edward Clayton Elcher, of Iowa. Mr. Elcher is a member of the commission and a New Dealer from the heart. He was swept into Congress on the early Roosevelt tide and commended himself strongly to the Left Wing element by his earnest advocacy of the Public Utilities Act, particularly the death-sentence clause. His appointment to the SEC was in the nature of a reward for services.

IN 1938, when Mr. Roosevelt attempted to "purge" nine Democratic Senators, Mr. Elcher was the Administration spokesman in the unsuccessful fight against Senator Gillette, of Iowa. He is a member of the National Lawyers' Guild, which embraces the extreme radicals of the bar, and he is a Mennonite. The Mennonites are a denomination of Evangelical Protestant Christians which arose in Switzerland in the sixteenth century. There are about 60,000 communicants and 736 churches in the United States. They are lovers of peace and do not believe in bearing arms. Stress is laid upon discipline rather than dogma and, the encyclopedia says, "abstinence from the vanities of the world is imposed."

THOSE who know Mr. Elcher best feel that he would much rather be named to the vacant Federal judgeship in Iowa than to the SEC chairmanship. The President has let it be known that he will appoint an Iowa man, and Mr. Elcher seems a likely choice. There is some question of whether Senator Gillette would allow his confirmation, but that might be got around. At any rate, he seems headed for promotion in one direction or another. The SEC chairmanship, of course, is one of the most powerful posts in the Government. What kind of chairman Mr. Elcher would make, no one can tell, but certainly his tendencies are far more radical than those of any of the four men who have been chairman. That much is sure.

CHAPTER THIRTY-EIGHT

The footsteps reached once more down the passage and the opening and closing of a door ended their existence as far as Beef was concerned. He frowned perplexedly, hardly able to credit what he had heard and then began to feel about the floor for the key which the unknown had pushed beneath the door. He found it.

With infinite precaution his hands crept over the door to find the keyhole. He almost wept when he had worked right up one side of the door and had found nothing but blank wood. Then it occurred to him the keyhole might be on the other side. It was.

Holding his breath so that he himself should hear the slightest click or squeak, Beef gently and painstakingly inserted the key into the hole. When it was firmly in its place, and there was no possibility of its falling out again, he relaxed a moment and breathed deeply. With his ear near the keyhole he listened intently for some moments. . . then, getting to his feet, he placed his shoulder to the door and leaned his weight against it so that the wards of the lock should be free of all pressure when he turned the key, thus reducing any noise to a minimum.

As though his very life depended upon it, as well it might, Beef eased the key round in the lock. There was a slight click and, as he straightened himself, the door gave.

He nudged his brains in an effort to remember whether the door squeaked on its hinges or not. He found himself quite unable to remember. It was one of those things that you did not notice. Whenever that door had opened before, Beef had been far more interested in his visitors than in the door itself.

Almost imperceptibly he swung the door towards him and it cried aloud with a sound like that of a rusty gate.

"Gawd!" breathed Beef, sweating profusely. He stood quite still, listening, but nobody came to see what was the matter and once more he moved the door.

Thirty seconds later, Beef was standing outside in the corridor. He had not the faintest idea in which direction to turn. To the right lay the room to which he had been taken for questioning and flogging. To the left . . . he did not know.

For a moment or so, he stood wondering whether he should look the door of the room from which he had just escaped. There was a pro and con about doing so. If he looked it and left the key in the door, anyone passing would assume that the prisoner was still inside, but they only had to turn the key to see whether he was or not. On the other hand if he left the door ajar he could retreat to the room should he be obliged to do so.

It was at this point that Beef, for the first time, began to wonder who it was who had pushed the key under the door to him. Rum, that Jolly rum! Bit of all right, to be sure! Well, he had no means of finding out now. Leaving the door ajar, he turned left down the passage and felt his way through the dangerous darkness.

He went slowly on hands and knees, literally so, for he kept his feet up off the floor so as to minimize the noise of his progress. This method of advance, though undignified, is by far the best way to feel your way in the dark for before you move forward you can feel ahead with your hands for any steps or obstacles. If you walk forward in the dark with your hands outstretched before you, you are liable to kick objects on the floor.

After two minutes of careful exploration, Beef found himself in a cul-de-sac . . . the walls of the passage came to a squared-off end. He suspected it was a door which barred further progress but could find no crack or hinge or molding, to indicate such a thing. By this time, the tips of his fingers were losing their sensitiveness. He placed the back of his hand on the wall to his right and then on the wall to his left. Same texture and temperature. Wood! He placed the back of the same hand against the end of the passage. Much colder, smoother. Metal!

Beef raised himself to his feet, placed both hands as high up as he could reach on this flat expanse, and moved them slowly apart horizontally. When he had reached both walls of the narrow passage with his hands, he brought them down an inch or so and then moved them together. In the centre he found an object which felt like a bell push. Was it a bell push?

With a quick mental calculation as to where exactly his cell was should it prove to be a bell, Beef put his thumb on to this object and pressed.

There came a series of soft, metallic clings as of well-oiled wards sliding in well-oiled slots. . . Tentatively, the tense veteran pushed. To his astonishment, his left hand went away from him while his right came towards him. The door was swung on a central pivot.

It was with the feelings of an explorer plunging into the unknown that Beef crawled through the doorway into what lay beyond. He felt the wall just inside the door, hoping to find an electric light switch, and he did. He decided to flick on the light for one quick survey of the room.

Beef pressed the switch down, instantly and brilliantly illuminating the room. What he saw made his jaw drop and he stood goggling.

Evidently Beef was in a newly built, storehouse of concrete, the room about seven feet high, its ceiling supported at frequent intervals by concrete pillars. It was as large as an indoor tennis court. However, it was not its size which staggered the old detective, but its contents. He once had been attached to the Explosives Department of Scotland Yard and he knew what he beheld now. There was enough gelignite, dynamite and nitroglycerine in this place to destroy—if distributed—half the buildings in England.

"Good grief!" breathed Beef and switched off the light. He stood in frowning thought for some time, then, after listening carefully, once more pressed the light switch and gently closed the door. Removing his heavy shoes, he went nimbly on stockinged feet about the solid concrete floor, his practised eye picking out a battery here, a coil there and finally a small clock.

His fingers seemed clumsy to him and he had lost their cunning from lack of practice but he went doggedly on . . . within an hour his work was complete. He could only guess at the time; this made his desperate resolve the more dangerous.

As Beef contemplated his concealed handiwork, he heard a noise in the passage outside.

With a flying leap, the old detective reached the light switch and plunged the storehouse into darkness. He crouched beside the door, held his breath, heard the sound of even breathing just behind the jamb of the door. He felt, rather than heard, the door swing on its well-oiled pivot; the next moment he seized the intruder by the legs, jerked them from under him.

Beef fought with the power of desperation but he was no match for his antagonist. Every blow struck some part of him already battered from the savage hogings he had undergone. Soon a Louisville wall-punch sent him staggering back to crash into something which collapsed under him with the noise of tin cans. Shouts were heard and the sound of men running. Somebody pressed the light switch down. Beef rose dully to his feet to see his late antagonist held by either arm while Lieutenant Rotz and two others stood by with drawn revolvers.

"Strike me pink!" gasped Beef as he stared at the man with whom he had fought. "Sir John!"

The latter's mouth was bleeding but he smiled at his old friend and said, "Just bad luck, old man!"

"Sir John!" snapped Rotz as his face registered amazement. "Sir John Meredith?"

"That's me," nodded John. "Where do we go from here?" He caught sight of Beef's face. "My—my, Beef! I am so sorry! Had no idea I'd knocked you about like that."

Beef's swollen lips twisted slightly in a smile as he said, "That's all right, sir, you didn't do that. These bloody foreigners have been beating me up."

"I see," said Meredith very quietly. "I'm afraid there's nothing we can do about it at the moment, old man, but don't worry too much. We'll put such gentry into pickle yet."

As the two men were hustled roughly from that secret magazine, Beef looked at Sir John and said, "I'm awfully glad to see you, sir, in one way, but I wish you weren't in it, too."

"The prisoners silence will observe!" shouted Rotz. His scowling face flushed as Meredith chuckled. "Did you get that, Beef? The prisoners silence will observe!"

Rotz slapped Meredith's face. "One of his little tricks, Sir John," commented Beef.

Despite the revolver stuck in his back, Meredith halted and regarded Rotz with critical expression. "You must remind me," he told the puzzled Nazi, "to take you apart some time."

"Silence!" roared Rotz.

"Suavest Crook" Gets 5 To 12 Years in "Pen"

"Thank you very much, your honor," Judge Keller said to the judge announced the sentence of 4 to 10 years.

Frank A. Hynes, 4419 North 8th St., Philadelphia, pleaded guilty yesterday afternoon before Judge Keller to a charge of driving while drunk near Bristol on Sept. 14, on his way home from a Lithuanian picnic. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $200 and costs, and a prison sentence of two months to one year was suspended on condition that he surrender his driver's license and not apply for one for a year.

It was testified that Hynes was arrested in Philadelphia for drunken driving on Feb. 4, 1940, and was not tried until January this year when he was fined $25.13, the cost in the case. It was also pointed out that Hynes' driver's license for 1940 was never revoked although he was arrested on the charge in February, 1940.

Judge Keller suspended sentence on Leo Gonzales, 24, Lower Saucon township, Lehigh county, and Alex Sofia, 26, Hellertown, yesterday, after they had pleaded guilty to a charge of burglary involving the theft of three used tires in Bucks county, near the Flint Hill section not far from Hellertown. The tires were on the Hartford Benner farm.

The same defendants were before the courts in Northampton and Lehigh counties where they were given heavy suspended prison and punitive sentences in addition to fines and costs.

Judge Keller suspended sentence on condition they pay the costs within six months and placed them on probation for two years. An officer took them back to Lehigh county for further action. The court advised both men to enter a trade school of some sort in Bethlehem, and learn a useful trade.

It was brought out at the hearing yesterday for the first time that Gonzales has been living with a woman for a year whom he has presented as his wife, but that he has never been married. She was in court yesterday with a three-months-old child. Gonzales told Judge Keller the baby was born since he has been in prison and that he wanted to get married last Christmas but did not have the money. He promised to get married in the near future, just as soon as he earns some money. Gonzales is a battery repair man.

Political Period Now Likened To Jackson's

of support of great political machines, with two exceptions, Kelly, of Chicago, and Hague, of Jersey City.

Two reasons were given for this: "1. Voters better educated and more independent; 2. Public relief is taking the place of political relief in cities. The labor vote is very important. In every city of over 400,000, except Cincinnati, O., the vote went Democratic at the last election.

"At the last election there was more cross-party voting than at any other election. In 10 states the voters voted the one party as governor and the other party as president."

In speaking of the future, the speaker said:

"The war situation may change everything. The Republican obstruction to the war bills may ruin the party. If this happens, the party that takes its place may be a 'left' or radical party, and in that case the Democratic party would be the conservative party. A noted Harvard professor predicts that the country will go conservative again in 1948.

"If we get in the war, we can not tell the feeling at the end of the war. After the world war the Republican party gained control in 1920 and held it for 12 years."

In speaking of the world after the present war, Dr. Short said: "If England wins, Socialism will set in. Regardless of who wins, all wealth is gone, and all governments will have to step in and preserve control and regulate everything and all peoples. This is a form of Socialism. In this country we will have to adjust our mode of living to conform with the world changes to survive."

Following the address, Doron Green and Roy Fry entertained with tricks in magic.

At the business meeting Earl McEuen presided.

Paul V. Forster reported that there were more than 260 in the adult school, and that 10 courses are offered. "The school is self-supporting and will meet all its expenses. The school seems to be permanent and plans are going forward for next fall," he informed.

Committees were also appointed for the "School Children's Auditions," to be held in the high school on March 28th. Dancing will follow these auditions.

Refreshments were served after the meeting.

MANHATTAN FIVE TO OPPOSE K. OF C. TEAM

Trying for its fifth straight win, the Manhattan Soap A. A. will also try to move into a deadlock for first place tonight as it meets the Knights of Columbus five on the Italian Mutual Aid floor. In the second contest, Rohm and Haas has an issue to settle with the Fifth Ward Sporting Club.

Manager Dugan and his Manhattan boys realize the value of this game with the Knights. A defeat will practically eliminate the soap-workers from the second half race as the league-leading Profy team has dropped but one game and has but one to play.

So the race has narrowed down to a two-team fight between Profy and Manhattan. The Radiomen have won their game for this week and tonight it is up to Manhattan. If the Manhattans can stop Johnny Zack and his mates then they will be practically assured of at least a deadlock as their remaining game is with Fifth Ward, a team which hasn't hit its stride in the second half.

The local followers of the court game have their eyes pinned on the Knights of Columbus in that team's final two games which is tonight with Manhattan and next Thursday with Profy. Although they cannot raise themselves in the league-standing, the Casesys can create quite a bit of damage. It can swing the second half championship to either the Manhattan or Profy team or can make a three-way tie out of it with Rohm and Haas coming in for its share.

And it will not be that co-managers Johnny Klug and Johnny O'Brien will not have the weapons for on Thursday nights they are fully strengthened with the addition of Johnny Zack, Bucky Bucknum, Ad Nowalinski, and Johnny Gavin. These four along with the Bristolians that are signed up with the Radcliffe street association present a formidable line-up hard for any club to beat.

Manager Dugan is not taking chances and so tonight will start his strongest lineup in Joe Snyder, Joe Gallagher, "Punkie" Zeffries, Nick Hutnell, and Maurice Mulligan. Zeffries also has a fight on his hand to maintain his slender margin in individual scoring.

Manager Johnny Cole, of the chemical workers, has not given up hopes for the second half crown. His club has lost but two games, both by one-point margins and if it can get by the Fifth Ward club tonight, it still has a mathematical chance of finishing in a deadlock. The chemical workers won the first half.

The Rohm and Haas starting lineup will have: Sammy Smith, Ralph Cahall, Angle Everitt, Joe Roe and Jesse Vanant while Fifth Ward starts Danny Pieo, Steve Fiorio, Joe DiLissio, Joe Pica, and Pat Capecci. Ralph Cahall and Angle Everitt are trailing Zeffries in point-honors. Cahall, last season's ace scorer, is but a few points away from the Manhattan star.

First game gets under way at eight o'clock sharp.

Patients Killed As Hospital Is Hit in London

London, Feb. 20 — A new air raid alarm—478th of the war—sounded in London today as authorities revealed numerous patients were killed in their beds when a Nazi high explosive bomb wrecked three hospital wards.

All the fatalities in the hospital last night were men. Doctors and nurses of the staff worked throughout the night, digging through debris for victims, while chaplains cheered the wounded.

Authorities posted signs outside the hospital advising friends and relatives that all women patients were safe.

The alarm, which lasted an hour, was caused when a small number of enemy aircraft appeared over the Thames estuary. They turned back before reaching the outskirts of London.

Burlington's Water Supply Goes Dry

But it's an ill wind that blows no one any good—the school children were given a holiday until water pressure was restored.

At the Torresdale pumping station it was explained that the level of the river would have to fall 25 feet below normal before Philadelphia's supply would be affected.

No difficulty was experienced at all here at Bristol as the water is pumped directly from the Delaware River and there are two intake pipes located well out into the stream. The two pipes are so located that ice or low water is not likely to affect them both at the same time.

Near noon it was stated that conditions in Burlington had improved and that water was now flowing to the intakes.

On the Bristol side of the Delaware the tide was about one foot below normal due to the high west wind.

ing by act of assembly on July 25th, 1917.

From any spot in the park you can see Bowman's Hill Tower, outlined against the sky. Here high above the Delaware was a signal tower from which sentries watched enemy movements across the river. This advantageous location undoubtedly played an important part in Washington's knowledge of the movements of the British troops, a knowledge which made the Trenton attack possible. So it was fitting that here, in 1930, the Park Commission erected a stone observation tower in his memory. From its top, in summer or winter, you will enjoy a beautiful view of the Delaware and its rolling countryside. On its slopes, the Commission, in 1933, set aside 100 acres to be developed as a state Wild Flower Preserve. Many organizations have co-operated in planting this beautiful area.

Nearby, between the canal and the river, is an ideal camp site. Campers can now pitch their tents where some of Washington's weary troops pitched theirs. Many recent improvements have been made on the camp grounds—new camp sites, new wells, new roads, and additional ovens built along the high Delaware bank.

Park visitors always enjoy the Thompson-Neely House with its old, stone barn, smoke house and grist mill. This house, which has been restored, is one of the finest examples of early American architecture. Here Washington made his headquarters immediately before the Battle of Trenton.

Not far from here, close to the Delaware, is a burial ground where headstones mark the graves of twenty nameless soldiers. As a memorial to these unknown heroes a flagstaff has been erected. Its base is divided into thirteen triangular sections with native stones presented by the thirteen original states.

In this day of darkness for all free peoples, we in America, should remember Washington's courageous fight to secure freedom for our country. On this, his birthday, we could make no more fitting tribute than new resolutions to guard this freedom with all the strength and determination at our command.

American Stores Co. Celebrates 50th Anniversary

This week, the American Stores Company has reached the Half-Century mark in the retail food business. It is an event of importance, of particular interest to millions of home-keepers who are well acquainted with the familiar, convenient neighborhood American Stores.

The company has planned a four-week Golden Jubilee Sale of their quality food products as a token of appreciation to their valued customers.

The American Stores Company in celebrating its 50th Anniversary honors in a special way its older friends, especially those who are celebrating their golden wedding anniversary this year. Couples who have been or will be married 50 years or more this year, when both husband and wife are still living, and who will register and band for purchase of new uniforms, furnish proof during the four weeks of the Anniversary Sale will receive a beautifully hand decorated, delicious party size Golden Anniversary Cake. All that is necessary is that the couple leave their names and address at any American Store.

It is interesting to note that this large Company, one of the leading food distributors in the United States, began business operations in Philadelphia back in 1891 with one modest store. The American Stores has developed until it now operates in thousands of neighborhoods in seven states and the District of Columbia.

This successful development was made possible by the appreciation and acceptance of the company's efforts and methods by both consumers and producers.

Cost of moving food from producers to consumers has been reduced more than 10% during the years in which modern methods have been developing. This alone results in saving millions of dollars for consumers. Producers also benefit because they receive a larger share of the consumer's dollar.

The American Stores were pioneers in developing cash and carry, and Self Service economies in food distribution.

ON THE SCREENS

GRAND THEATRE

Alexander Korda, whose new all-Technicolor production, "The Thief of Bagdad," is now playing at the Grand Theatre, is indulging in, what is for him, a familiar occupation, namely: finding new worlds and then conquering them.

Korda is the man who made the British film industry a serious rival to Hollywood. No English man himself—he was born in Hungary—he entered the infant and backward film field in England with very little except his nerve. With his two brothers, Vincent and Zoltan, he made a couple of undistinguished but mildly successful pictures and then one day in 1933 the film moguls in California awoke to the existence of a new English picture called "The Private Lives of Henry VIII." In one stroke, the Kordas, Charles Laughton and the British film industry were made.

BRISTOL THEATRE

"Devil Bat," the smash horror-thrill hit starring Bela Lugosi and featuring Suzanne Kaaren, Guy Usher and Dave O'Brien, ends its successful run at the Bristol Theatre tonight.

"Devil Bat," which was awarded the Chicago Horror Club's gold medal, as "best horror film of the year" is a sensational spine-tingling thriller where in Lugosi as a vengeance-bent genius develops the "Devil Bat," a hideous killer, to seek revenge on his enemies. A new mystery-comedy with a challenging title, a brilliant cast, and an elaborate exploitation build-up, lived up to all expectations when "Who Killed Aunt Maggie?" was previewed at the Bristol Theatre last night.

RITZ THEATRE

Ann Sothern, popular blonde comedienne who has created such famous characters as the Brooklyn chorus girl, Maudie, and the inimitable Ethel Turp, comes to the screen in a brand new type of role, that of "Dulcy," in the new comedy opening at the Ritz Theatre today.

Miss Sothern was born in Valley City, North Dakota. Her mother, Annette Yde, was a concert singer, and her father a Seattle broker. During a concert engagement featuring her mother in Hollywood, Ann was seen by the producer, Paul Bern, who suggested she try the screen. She was tested, won a contract, and appeared in several hit parts.

HOUSEWIVES NOW ABLE TO BUY UNIFORMLY HIGH QUALITY EGGS

Eggs of uniformly high quality—the kind the particular housewife wants—are now available to local housewives, reports C. S. Johnson, manager of the poultry department, Purina Mills, and friend of the local Purina distributor.

According to Johnson, these special eggs are sold in strong, attractive checkerboard cartons that protect their identity from the time they are packed by the producer until they are used by the housewife. The checkerboard carton is a sign of guaranteed quality, Johnson says.

"Every egg packed in these checkerboard cartons is the same," Johnson claims. "Each yolk is of the same rich, lemon-yellow color and so firm that it can be separated easily from the white and rolled from hand to hand without breaking. The whites are exceptionally firm. The shells are dense and thick and not easily broken."

Johnson explains that these special eggs, known as Layena eggs, are produced by hens kept under carefully controlled conditions of management, feeding and care of eggs. They are fed a balanced feed enriched with vitamins A, D and G, and blended to produce a highly nutritious egg containing dependable amounts of vitamins A, D and G. At no time are these hens allowed to run loose where they can pick up bugs and other materials that affect the color and taste of eggs.

Editor's Note: If you would like to try a carton of eggs produced and cared for this special way, and don't know where to get them, give the local Purina distributor a ring. He will be happy to tell you where they may be obtained for a few cents more than the price asked for ordinary eggs.

Calf Deaths From White Scours Can Be Much Reduced

White Scours, one of the most serious of all calfhood diseases, can be kept under control by following a strict program of sanitation, claims Grafton Lothrop, head of the sanitation department, Purina Mills.

White Scours, he explains, is a highly infectious disease caused by bacteria gaining entrance to the calf through the mouth or navel. Even though apparently strong and vigorous at birth, a calf may become sick in two or three days, develop diarrhea, and die.

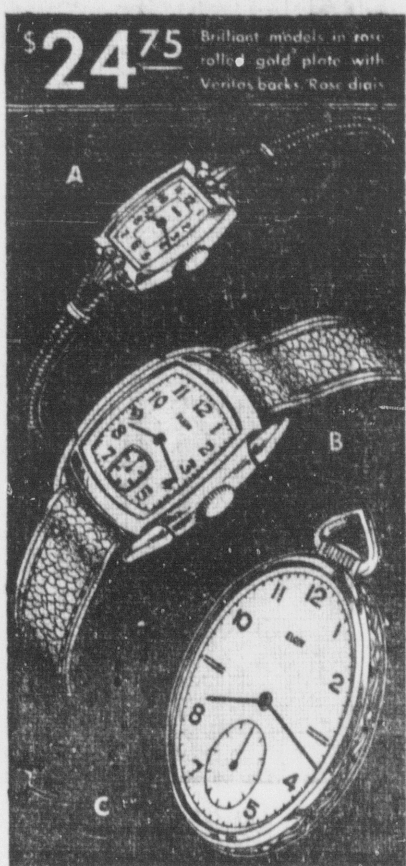

To help prevent White Scours in calves, Lothrop has developed a strict sanitation program intended to help eliminate the possibility of infection at calving time and for several days later. It calls for an isolated calving pen that has been thoroughly cleaned and disinfected with the federally approved disinfectant, Cre-so-fec. Then just before the pregnant cow is brought in for calving she, too, is given a sponge bath with a Cre-so-fec solution.

After the calf is dropped, but just before nursing, the teats and udder of the mother cow are thoroughly washed and sterilized with a non-irritating antiseptic, Chlorox. Also, it is important for the dairyman to be present at calving to make sure that the navel is immediately disinfected with iodine. Lothrop warns that precautions must be taken to prevent the bringing in of infection from the outside. For this he recommends that a sack saturated with Cre-so-fec be placed before the entrance of the stall so that anyone entering will have to step on it.

Electric motors, explosion proof, for operation near volatile flammable liquids, flammable gases, or combustible dust are now available for vertical operation. A variety of mounting flanges may be used to fit them to various machines.

BENSALEM FIVE WINS CHAMPIONSHIP GAME FROM SOUTHAMPTON

Patterson and Colbert Lead Owls To Win Over Greyhounds

WAS DECISIVE TRIUMPH

Game Was Fast During Opening Minutes of Championship Fuss

By Jack Gill
Bensalem High School won the laurels of the "little three" Lower Bucks schoolboy league at Cornwells Heights last night by scoring a decisive 40 to 24 triumph over a hard-fighting Southampton quintet.

The game was a hard fought fray, typical of most championship battles, and fans not used to following contests in the little three divisions were treated to some fine basketball. Bensalem utilized its tremendous height advantage to control all rebounds off the backboard and successfully resist whatever Southampton had to offer.

The Greyhounds proved that their win last Friday was no fluke by battling a spicy ball game throughout. Although the Owls stepped off to a wide 12 to 3 first quarter lead, the progenies of Coach Claude Lodge came back in the second semester to take up thirteen points. Bob Rochelle's seven points sparked this eight minute uprising. At the half Bensalem led by a 20 to 16 margin.

Both teams fought evenly but wildly in the third chucker and little scoring ensued. Then, in the last quarter, Bensalem began making their shots from underneath hit the mark, and with Patterson breaking out with a rash of points, the Owls easily slid through to victory. Patterson dropped nine points through the mesh in this quarter which was more than a point per minute.

For Bensalem rangy Dick Colbert played a wonderful game of ball by retrieving and intercepting the ball all evening. Patterson, who hit an evening's high with 13 points, couldn't miss for the Slaven cause in the final moments. Bob Scarborough tallied 8 markers and played a fine all round game.

Bob Rochelle did yeoman work for Southampton and piled 12 points through the hoop. Duane "Droopy" Davis, the boy who shot the Greyhounds into this title game, couldn't get his long shots loose. Late in the game, when he was needed most, a bleeding nose stymied his activities. Southampton played an iron man game up until the final chucker when they made their first substitution.

As a result of this triumph Bensalem earned the right to face Morrisville in one game to decide the championship of the entire Lower Bucks County League.

An outstanding feature of last night's contest was the precision like officiating of referees Horst and Hooley, who called everything together. It was by far the finest piece of officiating witnessed all winter.

PETRIK BROTHERS LEAD TEAM TO VICTORY

With Bob and Bill Petrik leading the offense, the Franklin A. C. basketball five trounced the Karp's A. C. of Yeadon last night on the Bok Vocational School floor in their opening game of the Philadelphia N. Y. A. tournament. Final score read Franklin, 47; Karp's, 21.

The two Petrik boys scored 22 points between them or enough to defeat the Karp's team themselves. Bob accounted for 14 points and brother Bill collected the remaining 8.

In the first half of the game the Franklin team had a very tight defense. So tight that the Karp team could score but one measly point and that a foul by Zeiss in the first few seconds of the ball game. But in the second half their defense changed with the result that the game turned out to be a high-scoring match with Franklin scoring 33 points to 20 for Karp's.

Five other ball games were played last night on the same floor and some very rough action was seen. In one ball game a player suffered a dislocated shoulder and a few minutes later the game was stopped and both teams were disqualified from the tournament.

"Winning Baseball" To Be Shown at K. of C. Home Here

"Winning Baseball," the National League's official 1941 sound motion picture, will be the feature at the Knights of Columbus Sports Night, tomorrow evening at eight o'clock, in the K. of C. Home, here.

The picture is being procured by the Philadelphia National League club. "Winning Baseball" is a picture that every follower of the game will want to see. It is full of fast moving action and will be as interesting to the "just a fan" as the aspiring youngster on the sand-lots.

For instance, Bill Terry, the Giants' manager, is shown with his team, and with the aid of a blackboard shows how the "cut-off" play should be made. Doc Prothro of the Phillies demonstrates how to pick a runner off second and Bill McKechnie, shows the boys what a coach should do at third base.

Hugh Mulcahy, Bucky Walters and Freddie Fitzsimmons show the various pitching styles and Johnny Mize, Mel Ott, Joe Medwick and Johnny Rizzo show how batters should stand. Bill Phillips, the Judge Landis of Pennsylvania semi-pro teams, and Joe (Patsy) O'Rourke will be present and will answer any questions. On account of limited room only adults will be admitted. There will be no charge for admittance.

The duck's bill went right into the but the weight of the oyster held the open mouth of an oyster and the latter duck's head under the surface until it promptly closed its shells, trapping the drowned. Webb retrieved both the bird. The buoyancy of the duck's body duck and the oyster.
